Acknowledgements

- I would like to thank the almighty God for making all this possible. ‘Ke a go leboga Morena fa o nkutlwile, wa tlhokomela lentswe la thapelo ya me’.
- A sincere thank you goes to my mother, Mary Bokaba, my grandmother, Minah Bokaba, my uncles, Moses, Phillip, Adam and Masilo Bokaba for the love and support they have shown me. A special thank you goes to my uncle, Simon Bokaba, who is a father figure in my life for his unwavering support and for the love he has shown me. ‘Malome o nkgadimile fa ke goeletsa, Modimo a go etelele pele ka ditshegofatso’. Thank to my brothers, Peter, Tshepo, and Ntshelatseng and my sisters, Welheminah and Ntshina for the love they have shown me and for believing in me.
- I would also like to say a special thank you to my supervisor, Brian Boshoff for his kindness, patience, time and insight he has given me without which the discourse would have impossible. Thank you to Julie Clarke of Development Bank of Southern Africa (DBSA) for her encouragement, guidance and the provision of the study material.
- Thank you to Winnie (Architecture librarian) and her brother Vincent Mekingwe for the provision of accommodation during data collection.
- To the staff at the Pilanesberg National park, Maureen Mfetane and Joseph Maoka for their patience and willingness to assist with my research, thank you.
- To all those who have not mentioned by name, thank you. This discourse is a testament of your support.
